Electra: And Other Plays

By Euripides, John Davie, Richard Rutherford, Richard Rutherford

Penguin Books Ltd. Paperback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, Electra: And Other Plays, Euripides, John Davie, Richard Rutherford, Richard Rutherford, Of all the ancient Greek tragedians, Euripides was the most sensitive to the lives of women and other outcasts in Athenian society, and "Electra and Other Plays" collects five plays demonstrating his talent for bringing to life their plight. This "Penguin Classics" edition is translated by John Davie with an introduction and notes by Richard Rutherford. Written during a period overshadowed by the fierce struggle for supremacy between Sparta and Euripides' native Athens, these five plays are haunted by the shadow of war - and in particular its impact on women. In "Electra" the children of Agamemnon take bloody revenge on their mother for murdering their father after his return from Troy, and "Suppliant Women" depicts the grieving mothers of those killed in battle. The other plays deal with the aftermath of the Trojan War for the defeated survivors, as Andromache shows Hector's widow as a trophy of war in the house of her Greek captor, and Hecabe portrays a defeated queen avenging the murder of her last-remaining son, while "Trojan Women" tells of the plight of the city's women...
